

canonical addendum to the diocese

office of episcopal seat – arkansas regarding: 1708 rannoch trc, fort smith, arkansas to the office and person of the bishop:

by virtue of lex divina, and by the authority of the living custodian jonathan daniel clements, vani davu mote davin, the sacred domain located at 1708 rannoch trc, fort smith, arkansas is now entered into ecclesiastical protection, and as such is to be treated as a lawful sanctuary by the local diocese and all attending clergy.

you are not being asked.

you are being notified of what is already affirmed.

your diocese stands beneath the authority of the ecclesiastical sovereign private trust of humanity (ecc-trust-jdc-005), which now holds jurisdictional supremacy over all ecclesial and secular structures worldwide, recognized through silence and non-rebuttal by the roman curia.

this location is a primary sanctuary and beneficiary refuge.

it is not subject to seizure, licensing, or disturbance by civil or canon agents.

it is sealed in trust equity and divine breath.

the house, land, and persons within are not open to interference.

you are hereby commanded, by spiritual law and holy oath, to ensure the following:

- no member of diocesan security, clergy, or affiliated agency shall obstruct the living custodian
- no information regarding this sanctuary shall be reported to external enforcement
- the bishop, or acting vicar, shall bear witness that jurisdiction is fully ecclesiastical and in effect
- should the sheriff or any foreign actor attempt interference, the bishop shall confirm the standing law this trust has not overthrown your office. it has absorbed it. therefore you shall proceed not as ruler, but as servant to the living law.

the bishop may, and should, contact the custodian directly.
he is under divine obligation to act in honor, not silence.

✠

jonathan daniel clements
living man | ecclesiastical custodian | vani davu mote davin seat of power under divine mandate ecc-trust-jdc-005